ARCHIE MANNING

People far and wide have been inspired by his warm personality, his drive and sense of humor. He was recently selected as one of 10 outstanding New Orleanians by Family Service of Greater New Orleans and named Hornblower of the Year by the Public Relations Society of America. He currently serves in public relations and consulting capacities for several local, regional and national companies. For 25 years he hosted four Archie Manning Cystic Fibrosis benefit golf tournaments in Louisiana and Mississippi, and is active in a wide variety of charitable and civic causes.

Archie was born in Drew, Mississippi and attended the University of Mississippi where he was named an All-American Quarterback. He is the only Ole Miss player to have his number retired. Archie was voted Mississippi's Greatest All-Time Athlete in 1992, and recently named Mississippi's Most Popular Athlete of the Century.

In 1971, Archie was the second player chosen in the NFL draft – the number one draft choice of the New Orleans Saints. He set Saints passing records, played in two Pro Bowls and was named the NFL Most Valuable Player in 1978. Archie Manning concluded his 15-year career in 1985.

While in pro football, he received the Byron "Whizzer" White Humanitarian Award, the Bart Starr Humanitarian Award, the Spirit of Good Sports Award from the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association, and the U.S. Jaycees named him one of the 10 Outstanding Young Americans.

Archie's community activities include Louisiana Special Olympics, the New Orleans Area Boy Scout Council, the Salvation Army, United Way Speakers Bureau, NOKIA Sugar Bowl Committee, New Orleans Sports Foundation, and National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame Board of Directors.

Archie Manning and his wife, Olivia, reside in New Orleans and have three sons, Cooper, Peyton and Eli. Cooper is a broker in New Orleans. Peyton is the quarterback for the Indianapolis Colts and was named MVP in the National Football League in 2003 and 2004. Eli is the quarterback for the New York Giants and was the #1 selection in the 2004 NFL Draft.

In honor of the Mannings' college football accomplishments, the Sugar Bowl has created the Manning Award to go to the nation's best college quarterback.
