

Sea Scout Basic Adult Leader Training

SSBALT

Important early step in training Sea Scout leaders in the skills and attributes necessary to be an effective advisor in the Ship's service delivery to youth. It is intended primarily to enhance individual knowledge of and connectivity with the BSA strategic plan, program, and resources, as well as emphasizing personal skills necessary for youth development in the Sea Scout program.

Key Facts about the course

- This course became an official, required component of a Sea Scout adult leader's basic training on January 1, 2010. It replaces 'Venturing Leader Basic Training' and the 'Sea Scout Specialized Training' courses.
- It also replaces all previous versions of Sea Scout adult leader basic training.
- It consists of one three-hour session, covering key program concepts such as unit resource management, training opportunities, youth advancement and recognition, program planning, and effective leadership.

The other required components necessary to be considered a 'trained' Sea Scout adult leader are:

- Venturing Youth Protection Training (online) or face-to-face if offered in your area.
- 'This is Scouting' (online - replaced 'New Leader Essentials') or face-to-face if offered in your area.
- This training is now part of the qualifications to earn the Sea Scout Leader's Training Award.

If a Sea Scout adult leader previously completed all required training elements and was considered 'trained', they are grandfathered as a trained leader.

Sea Scout Adult Leader Basic Training Provisions

SSALBT will provide participants with

- a challenging, inspiring, and enjoyable learning experience;
- a better understanding of how the ship works;
- an understanding of planning, ship program, and resources;
- a focus on the personal skills needed to communicate effectively and guide both youth and adults in the developing youth leadership and service delivery;
- the realization that a balance of strategic thought and timely tactical planning is needed to create an environment in which youth may see value, learn by doing, and gain ownership of a ship's achievement of objectives.
